ABSTRACT

This handbook is designed to facilitate the placement of foreign students in U.S. colleges and universities. While it particularly emphasizes graduate and undergraduate admissions, it also provides information on many upper secondary and postsecondary programs as well. The handbook provides educational structure profiles on 131 countries and the Canadian provinces, each of which includes information on the country's educational system, their grading system, advice for admissions officers, and additional information or sources dealing specifically with each country listed. The educational system sections are coded with credentials identified by type and level. The grading system sections are generally drawn from reports published by Projects for International Education Research and the World Education Series of the American Association of Collegiate Registration and Admissions Offices. The advice sections provide general guidelines for admission and placement of students. Contains a bibliography of 11 items. (GLR)

The National Association for Foreign Student Affairs (NAFSA) is a nonprofit membership association that provides training, information, and other educational services to professionals in the field of international educational exchange. Its 6,100 members—from every state in the United States and more than 50 other countries—make it the largest professional membership association in the world concerned with the advancement of effective international educational exchange. Members represent primarily colleges and universities but also elementary and secondary schools, public and private educational associations, exchange organizations, national and international corporations and foundations, and community organizations. Through its publications, workshops, consultations with institutions, and conferences, the association serves as a source of professional training, a reference for standards of performance, and an advocate for the most effective operation of international education exchange.

The Handbook on the Placement of Foreign Graduate Students, 1990 Edition is designed to facilitate the placement of foreign students in U.S. colleges and universities. While it particularly emphasizes graduate admission, undergraduate admissions officers will find that it provides useful information on many upper secondary and postsecondary programs as well. Its information is based on reference materials on the educational system of each country current at the time of publication. Because educational practices change swiftly in many countries, readers should consult other sources of information as they become available.

Handbook users should keep in mind the following points when examining the country profiles:

1. Educational System: Credentials are lettered by type and level. For example, A = upper secondary, B = postsecondary diplomas, C = first degrees. This system is used throughout most of the profiles. Several countries have a more complex educational structure and, thus, a more complex lettering system.
2. Grading System: Information on grading systems is generally drawn from reports published by Projects for International Education Research (PIER) and the World Education Series (WES) of the American Association of Collegiate Registration and Admissions Offices (AACRAO).
3. Advice for Admissions Officers: The advice provided suggests general guidelines for admission and placement. Institutional policies should be considered in the development and implementation of admission decisions. These guidelines have not been reviewed by the Council for the Evaluation of Foreign Educational Credentials, which approves placement recommendations for WES, PIER, and AACRAO monographs. They are, however, based upon recommendations approved by the council within the past 10 years and upon its current practices where no recent recommendations are available. Several sources listed in the bibliography (e.g., The International Handbook of Universities and Other Institutions of Higher Education and Commonwealth Universities Yearbook) were used to prepare profiles, and are valuable resources for admissions officers. Specific sources cited at the end of a profile indicate that the advice to admissions officers listed in that profile are drawn from the cited source.
4. Additional Sources of Information: Sources dealing specifically with each profile are listed here.

The production of this handbook has been made possible through the contributions of many people. Among them, I would especially like to thank the authors of the country profiles; my co-editor, Ann Fletcher; Julia Austin, who worked on the format and wrote many of the new profiles; Robert Watkins and Jim Haas, who edited for content and assisted in the development of several profiles; my secretary, Tammy Hegefeld, whose assistance in this project was critical to its success; the United States Information Agency (USIA), who helped with the financing of the project; and to Shirley Binder and the University of Texas at Austin for providing me the support I needed to complete this project. This latest edition of one of NAFSA's most popular publications would simply not be available without their help.

Grading System

Many different transcripts are issued, most of which will give the scale and the coefficients used. Grading is generally severe.

0-20 scale 10 passing	0-80 scale 40 passing	Mention (honors)	0-100 scale	Letter grade	Written equivalent
15-20	64-80	Tres bien	95-100	A	Excellent
13-14	56-63	Bien	90-94	A-	Very good
12	48-55	Assez bien	85-89	B+	Good
11	44-47	Passable	75-84	B	"Commendable"
10	40-43		70-74	C

In 1977, some university faculties adopted the grading system of 0-5. These scores may be interpreted by using either 4 as a coefficient or 20 as a coefficient, and comparing them to a 0-20 or 0-100 scale.

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Applicants who have received a Professeur d'Education, licence, diplôme, or Diplôme d'Etudes Supérieures after four or more years of study may be considered for graduate admissions.

- D₁ Doctorado—highest degree awarded. Awarded upon completion of a thesis, usually two to three years after licenciatura.

All levels of education:

The entire grading scale is used, but grades of 9 and 10 are reserved for outstanding achievement. Grading practices vary from one university to another and from one department to another. Generally, a cumulative average of 6 or higher represents above average achievement; an average of 8 or higher reflects superior work.

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Holders of the licenciatura or other first university degrees requiring at least four years of full-time university level study may be considered for graduate admission.
- Holders of first degrees in engineering, architecture, medicine, and law may be considered for graduate study in the same field.
- The doctorado will continue to be awarded after licenciado since many universities are not yet awarding the maestria. Requirements for the doctorado vary from institution to institution, with some requiring research and thesis and others including extra coursework.
- Titles of the same name are awarded at different levels (i.e., doctor, profesor). The chronology of the student's educational history will verify the level of the credential.

- A Secondary school certificates—awarded upon completion of 12 years of primary-secondary education. Each state differs slightly; however, total education is equivalent to 12 years.
- B Undergraduate diploma—awarded upon completion of three years of tertiary study.
- B₁ Ordinary or Pass (bachelor's) degree—awarded upon completion of three years of tertiary study.
- C Bachelor's degree (honours)—awarded upon an additional year's study after the completion of the three-year bachelor's degree.
- C₁ Bachelor's degree—awarded after four or five years of tertiary study.
- C₂ Professional degree—first university degree awarded after five or six years of tertiary study.
- C₃ Postgraduate diploma—awarded after approximately one year of study beyond the bachelor's level.

- C₁ Second bachelor's degree—awarded after one to three years of study beyond the first bachelor's degree.
- C₂ Master's qualifying year—year of study prior to master's level work required by many Australian universities for master's applicants with the three-year ordinary/pass bachelor's degree.
- D Master's degree—awarded after one to two years' study beyond the bachelor's level.
- E Doctor of Philosophy—awarded after a minimum of two to three years of study beyond either the honours bachelor's degree or the master's degree.
- E₁ Higher Doctorate (D.Litt., D.Sc., D.Mus.)—prestigious degree conferred five to nine years after the first degree for published work based on original research.

NOTE: The above represents a very general outline of university degrees offered and the time needed to complete them. A majority of degrees are offered as ordinary and honours degrees. It is possible for a four-year degree to be awarded as an honours degree if the student completes extra work at the required standard.

Some universities offer "joint" or "combined" degrees, which integrate two programs into a single bachelor's degree. These degrees can consist of two three-year degrees combined into a four-year degree, or a three-year bachelor's program earned in conjunction with a one-year Diploma of Education. Some degrees, such as the Bachelor of Education, may be an undergraduate degree in one university and a postgraduate degree in another. It is recommended that a syllabus of a particular university, or a reference book such as the Commonwealth Universities Yearbook or Directory of Tertiary Courses be consulted for specific degrees and the time required for each.

The master's degree may be earned by class work, research, or a combination of the two. Comprehensive examinations are required in some fields. The doctorate will almost always be a research degree. The Doctor of Science, Doctor of Laws, Doctor of Literature, and the Doctor of the University may be earned degrees at some universities and honorary degrees at others.

Grading System

Ordinary or Pass degrees: Ordinary or Pass degrees are not classified. They are recorded as BA (Ord) indicating that the holder has received an overall passing grade.

Honours degrees are awarded in the following classifications:

1. First Class Honours: or Class I; or HF (during some years in Tasmania).
2. Second Class Honours—Division A: or Class II—Division A; Class 2A; Ili; or HU (during some years in Tasmania).
3. Second Class Honours—Division B: or Class II—Division B; Class 2B; Ilii; or HL (during some years in Tasmania).
4. Third Class Honours: or Class III; Class 3; or HT (during some years in Tasmania).

Honours master's degrees may be awarded according to one of three general patterns:

1. First Class Honours; Second Class Honours A; Second Class Honours B.
2. Honours Class I; Honours Class II.
3. Distinction.

Candidates for an honours master's with an unsatisfactory result may be awarded a "pass master's." Doctoral degrees and postgraduate diplomas are not classified.

- Applicants holding the four-year bachelor's, the bachelor's degree (honours), or the five- or six-year professional degree may be considered for graduate admission. These combinations of degrees also qualify an applicant for graduate admission consideration: (1) a three-year pass degree plus a "postgraduate" diploma in the same, related, or a different field; (2) a bachelor's degree plus a second or "postgraduate" bachelor's degree; and (3) a three-year pass degree plus a master's qualifying year.
- A bachelor's degree from a College of Advanced Education may be considered equivalent to its counterpart in a university. Degrees from these schools are usually ordinary or pass degrees; honours degrees are always so designated.
- Ordinary or Pass bachelor's degrees are not considered sufficient preparation for admission into graduate school.
- Master's degrees may be considered as equivalent to U.S. master's degrees. A degree called the "pass master's," however, is not equivalent to U.S. master's degree as the student needs only the three-year ordinary degree to qualify for admission to this program.

- B Orientation courses from Gulf Polytechnic and University College of Arts, Science, and Education—represents one or two semesters beyond the secondary school certificate/diploma.
- B₁ Diploma in technical studies, associate engineering diploma, commercial studies diploma, accounting diploma program, associate business diploma (Gulf Polytechnic), diploma in population and statistical studies (University College of Arts, Science, and Education)—awarded upon completion of two years of study beyond the secondary school certificate/diploma.
- B₂ Medical secretary program (College of Health Sciences)—represents five semesters of study beyond the secondary school certificate/diploma.

- D₁ M.Ed. in Science Education (University College of Arts, Science, and Education)—second university degree, represents one year of full-time graduate coursework beyond the bachelor's degree. Thesis required.

Grading System

The most commonly used grading scale at Bahraini universities is one adapted from the U.S. system. As in the United States, each letter grade is given a point value (from four points for an "A" to zero points for an "F"). Courses are assigned a credit value (usually three credits per course). Semester and cumulative grade point averages are computed and appear on transcripts. The letter grades may be equated to descriptive grades as follows:

Other abbreviations used include:
A	90–100	Excellent
B	80– 89	Good or very good
C	70– 79	Fair or good
D	60– 69	Weak or fair
F	Below 59	Failing
I		Incomplete
IF		Incomplete or failed
W		Withdrew
P		Pass
		No grade reported

- Holders of bachelor's degrees may be considered for graduate admission.
- Degree of medical doctor from Arabian Gulf University may be considered for graduate admission; may be considered comparable to a first professional degree in medicine in the U.S.
- Certificate in Arabic and Islamic Studies, University College of Arts, Science, and Education represents additional undergraduate coursework; no graduate transfer credit should be awarded.
- Postgraduate Diploma in Education, University College of Arts, Science, and Education represents one year of graduate coursework; possible graduate transfer credit.
- M.Ed. in Science Education, University College of Arts, Science, and Education may be considered comparable to a U.S. master's degree.

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Applicants who have earned the bachelor's degree may be considered for graduate admission.
- Postgraduate studies in professional areas normally do not yield graduate credit. The Diploma in Education from the University of the West Indies should satisfy entrance requirements in graduate education studies since students entering the program must have a bachelor's degree.
- A master's and a Ph.D. degree may be considered comparable to a U.S. master's and Ph.D. degree, respectively.

Grading System

Tertiary Level

The following is a useful summary of grading scales used by institutions of higher education in Belgium. Variations are used by some universities. Grading is severe with "Satisfactory" considered average, "Distinction" required for doctoral studies, and "Greatest Distinction" awarded to very few students.

Mentions	Percentage	Points	Suggested U.S. equivalent
Plus grande distinction Grootste onderscheiding (greatest distinction)	90–100%	18–20	A +
Grande distinction Grote onderscheiding (great distinction)	80– 89%	16–17.99	A
Distinction Onderscheiding (distinction)	70– 79%	14–15.99	B
Satisfaction Voldoening (satisfactory)	60– 69%	12–13.99	C

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Completion of university programs requiring four or more years of study should be considered for graduate admission.
- Completion of non-university programs requiring four or more years of study should be considered for graduate admission following careful review of the program followed; programs are highly specialized.
- Completion of third-cycle complementary degree programs may be considered for graduate transfer credit. Most Belgian third-cycle programs leading to the doctoral degree do not include coursework.
- Completion of the doctorat/doctoraat degree represents a level of achievement beyond the U.S. master's degree; may be considered comparable to an earned doctorate in the United States.
- Completion of Agregation de l'enseignement superieur/aggregatie voor het hoger onderwijs or Doctorat Speciale/Special doctoraat is comparable to an earned doctorate in the United States.

Many students attend a cursinho for a year or more following high school completion to prepare for university entrance exam (concurso vestibular). No credit should be given for either attendance at a cursinho or for the entrance exam.

- A Certificado de Conclusão de 2º Grau, Diploma de Professor do Ensino de 1º Grau (1a-4a), Diploma de Professor de 1º grau (1a-6a), certificado de habilitação básica, certificado de auxiliar Técnico—high school diploma, awarded on completion of eight years of primary education, usually followed by three to four, but sometimes two to five, years of secondary education.
- B Bacharel or licenciado (also seen as bacharelado and licenciatura)—first university degree, awarded upon completion of required number of hours for program chosen. Students may take minimum of three years, maximum of seven years to complete work. They may receive the two degrees simultaneously or consecutively, one in a subject (bacharel) and one in pedagogical techniques (licenciado) to qualify to teach the subject. The licenciatura curta is a three-year program that is not equivalent to the full licenciado. It is currently awarded as a teaching degree and has been awarded in other subjects in the past.
- B₁ Doutor (or Bacharel em Odontologia)—first professional degree in dentistry, awarded upon completion of the four-year program. Entrance is directly from high school.
- B₂ Título de (professional field such as engenheiro, arquiteto)—first professional degree, awarded upon completion of the required number of hours for program. Five or six years of full-time study required to complete most such programs. The Engenheiro de operação is the only degree in engineering less than five years in length. Created in 1969, it was a technical degree that has been phased out.

- B₁ Doutor em Medicina—first professional degree in medicine, awarded upon completion of six years of full-time study beyond secondary school.
- B₂ Aperfeicoamento or especializacao—postgraduate certificate programs that provide training beyond the first-level degree. These programs do not grant degrees and are not considered part of a graduate program in Brazil.
- C Mester, mestrado—second university degree, awarded upon completion of a minimum of one year of study plus thesis. Normal length of full-time study is two years. Students are permitted up to five years to complete.
- D Doutor—third university degree, awarded upon completion of a minimum of two years of additional study beyond the master's plus a thesis. Degree will normally list field of study, e.g., Doutor em Economia.

- B Diploma of Graduation from a university/college awarded in mid-1970s—during the Cultural Revolution, admission to colleges and universities followed 10 years of primary and secondary education (sometimes less) and was based on political recommendations rather than on academic entrance exams. Programs required three years of study, political lectures, and practical work.

- B₁ Diploma of Graduation from a university/college—awarded for completion of two to three years of higher education following senior middle school or its equivalent. Admission is based on the National College Entrance Examination (NCEE).
- B₂ Diploma of Graduation from a military academy—awarded for completion of two years of study at military academies following senior middle school. Admission is based on the NCEE and political recommendations.
- B₃ Advanced Diploma of Graduation from a military academy—awarded for completion of four years of military education following senior middle school education or its equivalent. Admission is based on the NCEE and political recommendations. Some technology-oriented military academies award bachelor's degrees.
- B₄ Diploma of Graduation from an evening university—awarded for completion of the equivalent of two years of higher education on a full-time basis following senior middle school education or its equivalent. Usually programs require three to four years of study on a part-time basis. Evening universities are run by formal institutions of higher education, but the standards of the entrance examinations prepared by each institution are not as high as the NCEE and the curriculum is less demanding.
- B₅ Diploma of Graduation from a vocational college—awarded for completion of two years of vocational training following senior middle school education or its equivalent. Institutions that award this type of diploma are also called "institutions of adult higher education." Admission is based on regional entrance examinations which are less demanding than the NCEE.
- B₆ Diploma of Graduation from an administrative college—awarded for completion of two or four years of study following senior middle school or its equivalent. Admission is based on political recommendations, work experience, and entrance exams that are less demanding than the NCEE. Curriculum emphasizes Marxist theory.
- B₇ College diploma for self-education/study—awarded for successful completion of examinations on the curriculum for two or four years of university studies. Students who are self-taught sit for examinations prepared by university professors selected by provincial education commissions. Many students with two- or three-year college graduate diplomas pursue this kind of study to upgrade their education. Some provinces also award a bachelor's degree along with a graduate diploma for completion of examinations on a four-year curriculum.
- C Bachelor's degree—awarded for completion of four years of university study. Admission is based on the NCEE. Bachelor's degrees were first awarded in 1982.
- C₁ Bachelor's degree—awarded for completion of five years of university studies in medicine and in engineering at some universities.
- C₂ Double bachelor's degrees—awarded for completion of five years of university studies in two majors. Students who pursue two majors must meet certain academic requirements and obtain special permission from the administration of the institution.
- C₃ Diploma of Graduation from a university/college awarded before 1970—awarded for completion of a pre-Cultural Revolution university program of four to five years following twelve years of primary and secondary education. Admission was based on entrance exams. Students who discontinued regular studies in 1966 when universities closed were said to have graduated when they completed the curriculum through independent study.
- C₄ Diploma of Graduation from a university/college awarded in 1980 and 1981—awarded after the Cultural Revolution but before degrees were introduced in 1982 for completion of four- or five-year university programs to students admitted through entrance examinations first offered in 1977.
- C₅ Diploma of Graduation from a university/college awarded since 1982—awarded for completion of four years of university study by institutions of higher education that have been newly founded or upgraded from two- or three-year institutions. They are fully recognized but may not grant bachelor's degrees to their graduates for a specified number of years. Admission is based on the NCEE. Diplomas are also awarded by universities along with degree certificates. A student may receive a diploma that verifies completion of all program requirements and eligibility to graduate in addition to a diploma that verifies conferral of the degree.

- D Graduate Study Diploma—awarded for completion of two to three years of study following the bachelor's degree or its equivalent. Admission is based on entrance examinations and recommendations. This credential was awarded before 1966 and between 1978 and 1981, prior to introduction of master's degrees. Since 1982, this diploma is still awarded to students who have completed all degree requirements except the thesis or to nondegree graduate students.
- D₁ Master's degree—awarded for completion of two to three years of graduate study, research, and a thesis. Admission is based on entrance examinations and recommendations. Master's degrees were first awarded in 1982.
- D₂ College teacher training certificate—awarded for completion of two years of graduate study to holders of bachelor's degrees or the equivalent who have been employed as full-time teaching assistants or assistant instructors. Only institutions that have graduate programs may award this credential and all courses must be offered by the graduate faculty. Admission is based on entrance examinations, recommendations, and work experience.
- E Doctoral degree—awarded for completion of a minimum of three years of advanced study, research, and a dissertation following the master's degree or its equivalent. Admission is based on entrance examinations, recommendations, research experience, and interview. Doctoral degrees were first awarded in 1984.

NOTES:

1. Beginning in the 1960s, primary and secondary education in China was reduced from 12 years to 10 (5 years of primary education and 5 of secondary). Nine years of compulsory schooling are now required and programs have been expanded to 12 years in some parts of the country. Higher education, with the exception of Cultural Revolution programs, has not changed. Bachelor's programs may follow 10, 11, or 12 years of primary and secondary education.
2. Evening and spare-time schools and programs are offered at the junior middle school level, at the senior middle school level, and at the postsecondary level. Postsecondary programs are not officially recognized as comparable to academic programs.
3. Nursing programs and kindergarten/primary teaching training programs are normally three-year programs following junior middle school. However, since the mid-1980s, many institutions of higher education have started offering these programs following senior middle school education or the equivalent. The trend is toward nursing and kindergarten/primary teacher training programs being part of (higher rather than secondary) education.
4. Regular or formal institutions of higher education are those approved by the Central Government, i.e., the State Education Council upon their founding or upgrading. In 1989, there were 1,075 such institutions. Among these are 100 "key" institutions which are the most prestigious and research-oriented universities with admission, faculty recruitment, funding, employment of graduates, and curricula under the direct jurisdiction of the State Education Commission and other state agencies. Other institutions are usually controlled by provincial educational commissions that have been delegated authority by the State Education Commission. Education was decentralized to some extent between 1984 and 1989.

China

People's Republic of

5. Of the postsecondary programs that require the National College Entrance Examination (NCEE) there are key institutions that require the highest scores for admission. Other regular institutions require the next highest scores. Students who receive a minimum acceptable score on the NCEE but who are not placed in regular institutions of higher education are exempt from regional entrance exams for enrollment in vocational universities and colleges, television universities, etc.
6. The terminology used for completion of nondegree programs varies from one institution to another. The terms, "Certificate of Graduation" or "Diploma of Graduation" are commonly used. Records may also state that the student graduated.

Grading Systems

The most commonly used grading scales are as follows:

90-100	A	Excellent
80- 89	B	Good
70- 79	C	Fair or average
60- 69	D	Pass
59 or below	F	Failure

Many institutions use pass/fail grading indicators for nonmajor or noncore curriculum courses or for courses in which no final examination is given. In general, 60 or above is "pass" and below 59 is "fail."

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Holders of a Diploma of Graduation from a university/college awarded before 1970 or between 1979 and 1981 for completion of a four- or five-year curriculum may be considered for graduate admission.
- Holders of a bachelor's degree awarded in 1982 or later may be considered for graduate admission.
- Holders of three-year Diplomas of Graduation from a university/college do not have sufficient preparation for admission to graduate programs. There is insufficient knowledge about Diplomas of Graduation awarded without a degree certificate since 1982 to make a placement recommendation.
- Holders of master's degrees and Graduate Study Diplomas may be considered to have degrees comparable to U.S. master's degrees.
- Holders of doctoral degrees may be considered to have degrees comparable to U.S. earned doctorates.

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Applicants holding the licenciatura degrees, or degrees equivalent to the licenciatura, including the ingeniero, doctor, arquitecto, and doctor en derecho degrees may be considered for graduate admission. Most of these degrees will be the result of four or more years of study; however, there are licenciatura and ingeniero degrees students can complete in three years of concentrated study that are equivalent to a four-year program.
- Applicants holding the maestria may be considered for admission to Ph.D. or doctoral-level programs. The certificado de postgrado should not be considered a master's-level degree and does not qualify the holder for doctoral-level work.

Grading System

Mention

16-20	Tres bien	Outstanding
14-15	Bien	Very good
12-13	Assez bien	Good
10-11	Passable	Satisfactory

Failures are indicated as Ajourne

French instructors rarely use the entire range of grades. It is rare that grades of 16 and above are given, especially in the arts, letters, and social sciences. The passing grade for a single subject is usually 10/20, although grades of 8 and 9 usually indicate satisfactory performance. Regardless of individual subject grades, a student is considered to have passed an academic year when the combined average of all of his or her grades (moyenne generale) is 10 or above.

Advice for Admissions Officers

- The licence and other credentials requiring three years of postsecondary study are normally not sufficient preparation for graduate admissions consideration.
- Holders of four-year postsecondary credentials from universities or grandes ecoles may be considered for graduate admission.

France

- Holders of five-year postsecondary credentials may be considered for graduate admission with transfer credit determined through a course-by-course analysis of the last year of study.
- Holders of the DESS may be considered for graduate transfer credit. The DESS yields graduate transfer credit. The DEA and the master's may be considered comparable to U.S. master's degrees.
- The new doctorat and the former Doctorat d'Etat are comparable to U.S. doctoral degrees.

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Bachelor's degrees and some diplomas are the minimum requirement for admissions consideration to graduate and professional degree programs. Specifically, bachelor's degrees from either university, honours diplomas from Hong Kong Baptist College, diplomas from Hong Kong Shue Yan College, and, prospectively, the still unspecified awards for Lingnan College year five graduates, plus some bachelor's degrees from the unaccredited institutions may be considered for admission to graduate and professional programs on quantitative grounds. Graduates of Hong Kong Polytechnic do not have an equivalent academic background.

Grading System

There are two grading systems in common use in schools and colleges above the compulsory level:

- A Excellent
B Good, above-to-high average
C Adequate for continuation, low average
D Inadequate for continuation, no credit given, but no re-sit requirement
E Fail

			Suggested U.S. equivalent
9.00-10.00	agaetiseinkunn	Excellent	A
7.25- 8.99	I einkunn	First class, (very) good	B + /A -
6.00- 7.24	II einkunn	Second class, good average	C + /B
5.00- 5.99	III einkunn	Third class, adequate	C
0.00- 4.99		Fail

The University of Iceland previously employed a scale with a range of minus 22 to plus 16. The minus scores were used to calculate the general average, but represented a "fail" in the specific course.

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Students who hold three and one-half or four-year B.A. degrees should be considered for admission to graduate study in the United States. A good student can complete a bachelor's degree (BA/BS) in three years.
- Students who hold the kennaraprof from the Teachers University of Iceland should be considered for graduate admission in a school of education. Kennaraprof no longer exists; teachers now have B.Ed. or BA/BS with professional year.
- Students who hold the Cand. Mag. should be considered for graduate admission with transfer credit determined on a course-by-course basis.

India

Grading system

Indian degrees are classified First Division with Distinction, First Division, Second Division, Third Division, and Pass. Often the term "Class" is used in place of "Division." Marks sheets (transcripts) for nonengineering programs use a division or class notation for yearly examinations. Engineering programs have detailed grade reports that include an explanation of the grading scale. The following table is a general rule to evaluating records from India:

Typical university scale	U.S. grade
80–100% Distinction	A +
60– 79% First Division	A
55– 59% Upper Second Division	upper B
45– 54% Lower Second Division	lower B
33– 44% Third Division	C

(Often a "Pass" Division follows "Third," and represents a D grade.)

Indian Institute of Technology, Madras	U.S. grade
8.0–10.0 First Class with Distinction	A +
6.5– 7.9 First Class	A
5.0– 5.9 Second Class	B

IIT, Bombay or Kanpur	U.S. grade
8.5–10.0 First Class with Distinction	A +
6.5– 8.4 First Class	A
5.0– 6.4 Second Class	B

IIT, Delhi or Kharagpur	U.S. grade
7.5–10.0 First Class with Distinction	A +
6.5– 7.4 First Class	A
5.0– 6.4 Second Class	B

Advice for Admissions Officers

- The master's degree is the minimum qualification for admission to graduate and professional degree programs. Exceptions are the 16-year bachelor's degrees and postgraduate diploma programs.

Second degree, awarded upon completion of a minimum of four years and maximum of six years of tertiary study (two years beyond sarjana muda). Students often require up to eight years to complete the five-year program.
- D₁ Akta IV—qualifies the candidate to teach two subjects at the secondary level.

*Diplomas I, II, and III are awarded at teacher training institutes. University-level students who are not in the field of education must obtain the Akta at the appropriate level in order to teach.

Grading System

Grading varies among tertiary institutions and even within institutions and faculties. High grades are rarely given. Quite often only "pass" (lulus) is shown on transcript. When grades are provided, the system below can be used:

1950s– 1960s	1960s to present	Present written assessment		Present system
5	10,9	Istimewa	Excellent	A
4	8	Sangat baik	Very good	A
3.5	7	Baik	Good	B
3	6	Berhasil	Successful	C
	5.75	Lulus	Minimum pass	C/D
2	5	Lulus bersyarat	Conditional pass	D
1	4,3,2,1	Tidak lulus	No pass, failure	F

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Students who have received the sarjana may be considered for graduate admission if they have graduated from public or "equalized" institutions. The sarjana muda is not considered sufficient preparation for graduate studies.
- Applicants holding the dokter medikal or the dokter gigi may be considered for graduate admission.
- Applicants holding the magister sains may be considered to hold a degree comparable to a U.S. master's degree.
- The doktor is not comparable to the U.S. Ph.D.; however, the Indonesian Ph.D. is considered comparable to the U.S. Ph.D.

Grading System

Junior colleges and universities are free to use any grading system they choose. The predominant grading system is a four-part scale: Yu, Ryo, Ka, Fuka. Grades are usually reported on English language translations of transcripts as A, B, C, F (failing). A few universities use number grades (0–100) only. The grade F is seldom given and almost never reported. Withdrawals and repeated courses are also almost never reported.

The most common grading system is as follows:

Yu	A	80–100
Ryo	B	70– 79
Ka	C	60– 69
Fuka	F	59 and below

The grade A is generally 80–100; however, the other grade ranges vary greatly among universities and among faculties or schools within the same university. The cutoff for passing grades may be as low as 40.

Advice for Admissions Officers

- A bachelor's degree is the minimum requirement for admission to graduate and professional school degree programs.

Tertiary Awards

All types of formal secondary- and tertiary-level institutions award diplomas (graduate certificates) that are similar in format and design to those issued by comparable U.S. institutions. Nonformal institutions, such as civic schools and technical schools, award only a certificate of attendance upon completion. In Korean, the name of a diploma or certificate is simply the name of the type of institution, e.g., Inmungye Kodung Hakkyo (high school), followed by the words chorup chung, which means graduation certificate. It is recommended that transcripts and certificates in both Korean and English be requested and carefully compared to assure that the name of the award (certificate) in English reflects the type of Korean institutions authorized to issue the qualification, e.g., master's diploma = Soksa Chorup chung.

Grading System

Grading systems and standards vary among Korean institutions and may even vary among departments within the same institution. However, most Korean colleges and universities are now using an A, B, C, D, E, F system where the grade E usually represents failure that can be overcome through reexamination. The grade F represents a failing grade below 50 percent. The grades A, B, C, and D represent levels of achievement similar to those identified by the same grade in the U.S. system.

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Holders of the bachelor's degree may be considered for graduate admission.
- The master's degree is comparable to a U.S. master's degree.
- The Ph.D. degree is comparable to a U.S. earned doctorate.

Grading System

Grading scales and patterns vary by university, by faculty within a university, and by level of study. The classification of the degree earned at universities in Malaysia is the most important quality factor. While letter grades (A, B, C, D, E, F) are given at the end of each course taken (semester or year in length), degrees are awarded with a classification and the level of pass implies the quality of the student's records. The merit classification for both general and honours degrees is as follows: first class, second class (upper division), second class (lower division), and third class. Some universities use "pass" as the lowest classification and at least one university uses both.

A sample breakdown of marks to grades follows; however, the percent represented by a letter grade varies from university to university and from faculty to faculty.

Marks	Malaysian grades	Meaning
70 & above	A	Pass with distinction
60-69	B	Pass with high credit
50-59	C	Pass with credit
40-49	D	Pass
Below 40	F	Fail

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Holders of the sarjana muda or bachelor/bachelor's degree with a designation of "Pass" or "General" for a program requiring up to three years of study may be considered for graduate admission where preparation is considered appropriate. Those with an "Honours" designation or a "General" designation for a program requiring four to six years of study may be considered for graduate admission.
- Holders of the ITM Advanced Diploma in Business Administration (representing five years of study) may be considered for graduate admission with possible undergraduate deficiencies.
- The Diploma in Education and the postgraduate diploma (following a bachelor's degree) may yield graduate transfer credit.
- The sarjana or master's degree may be considered comparable to a master's degree from a U.S. institution.
- The Doktor Falsafah/Doctor of Philosophy may be considered to represent a level of achievement beyond the U.S. master's degree; it may approach and is sometimes comparable to a U.S. doctoral degree.

Notes concerning time required for completion of tertiary degrees

There are seven tertiary-level institutions: the University of Auckland, the University of Canterbury, Lincoln College*, Massey University, the University of Otago, Victoria University of Wellington, and the University of Waikato.

Degrees may vary from one university to another in length of time required. For example, the ordinary degree of Bachelor of Agriculture requires three years of study at one university and four years at another; the Bachelor of Biological Science is a three-year degree at one institution and a five-year degree at another. Most degrees are offered as both ordinary and honours degrees. The honours degree may or may not require an additional year of study.

The degree structure also varies from university to university. Some institutions use papers and credits, one has units, another courses. It is recommended that the Commonwealth Universities Yearbook be consulted for specific degree requirements.

Teacher training is given in eight teachers' colleges. Six of these train teachers for primary schools, one trains secondary teachers, and one combines primary and secondary teacher training. Primary teachers complete a three-year course for which the entry level is the University Entrance Examination Certificate or the Sixth Form Certificate. Secondary teachers may attend a one-year course after earning a degree.

* Degrees earned at Lincoln College are awarded by the University of Canterbury.

Grading System

Each university has developed its own marking system which is usually on the transcript. Sample common scales are:

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Degrees are comparable to U.S. degrees at the same level. A bachelor's degree should be the minimum requirement for admission into U.S. graduate and professional schools. In general, postgraduate diploma/certificate programs are not equivalent to U.S. master's degrees. This is especially true when the U.S. program requires independent study and/or a thesis. Diploma/certificate programs that require a bachelor's degree for admission may be considered for graduate credit if an undergraduate major in the same or closely related subject matter is required or if the admitting U.S. institution does not require an undergraduate major in that area for admission into a graduate program.

B Higher education—The only postsecondary education in Oman is provided by the Sultan Qaboos University, initially opened in 1986, which offers four- and five-year bachelor’s degrees.

Not available

- Because higher education has just begun in Oman, there is no basis for determining specific guidelines, although Sultan Qaboos University will be organized along the lines of a typical U.S. university. The first graduates should receive their bachelor's degrees in 1990.

- D Postgraduate diplomas and certificates—awarded after nine months to two years of study beyond the bachelor's level.
- D₁ Master's degree—these degrees are awarded after one to three years' study beyond the bachelor's degree: M.A., M.Soc.Sci, LL.M, M.Sc., M.Eng., M.Arch., M.Sc. (Building), M.Bldg.Sc., M.Sc. (Estate Management), M.Sc. (Pharm.). Several master's-level degrees offered at the National University of Singapore also require diplomas or work experience between the bachelor's and master's levels. The M.Ed. is given through the Institute of Education and requires a one-year postgraduate diploma in education and two years of approved teaching experience. The M.A. (Applied Linguistics) is given through the S.E.A.M.E.O. Regional Language Centre and requires students to hold the Centre's diploma in applied linguistics or in T.E.S.L. and to have two years' relevant work experience. The M.Sc. (Public Health), the M.D.S., and the M.Med. require students to have held "registrable medical qualifications" for three to five years.
- D₂ Certificate in Legal Education—awarded after one year of study beyond the LL.M.
- E Doctor of Philosophy—awarded after completion of two to five years' study, usually after the master's degree, by thesis after research in an approved topic.
- E₁ Higher doctorate—D.Litt., L.L.D., D.Sc.—open to persons who have been holders of the Ph.D. for at least five years. Awarded on published work.

Note: The National University of Singapore was established in 1980 by merger of the University of Singapore (est. 1962) and Nanyang University (est. 1953) following the creation in 1978 of a joint campus where students from the two universities were taught by the same teachers and were examined by the same internal and external examiners. The former Nanyang University campus in Jurong is now Nanyang Technological Institute. It is linked to the national university's faculty of engineering and is considered part of the university. Under arrangement between the university and the Institute of Education, higher degrees in education, including Ph.D., may be awarded to students of that institute. Under a similar arrangement, students may earn higher university degrees in applied linguistics through the Southeast Asian Ministers of Education Organization (S.E.A.M.E.O.) Regional Language Center (R.E.L.C.).

The certificate of international law and relations, a one-year part-time program, is open to any approved candidate.

Note: All South African universities were originally founded for separate population groups, as shown below. In the last several years, increasing numbers of nonwhite students have been admitted to white "open universities" (in excess of 15 percent in 1986), although a disproportionately large number of these students are either Coloured or Indian.

Grading System

The upper performance limit in South African universities rarely exceeds 80 percent. Universities use either the four-class pass group grading method or the letter grading method.

Four-class pass group

First Class Pass/Distinction	Very good and rarely awarded
Second Class Pass Upper or Second Class Pass (Division One)	Good
Second Class Pass or Second Class (Division Two)	Above average
Third Class Pass	Average

Failures are common and, in some instances, students may retake an examination the next year without necessarily repeating the course.

Letter grading

Universities that employ letter grading vary slightly in the distribution of marks. The following is a very generalized interpretation:

- A 75–80% and higher, also sometimes noted as "Distinction"
- B 70–80%
- C 60–69%
- D 50–59%
- E 40–49%
- F less than 40%

Honours degrees

The pass level for honours degrees is 50 (and occasionally 60) percent. Students with 75 percent or higher are awarded an honours degree with distinction. Transcripts are not issued for honours programs.

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Holders of three-year bachelor's degrees in arts, science, and commerce may be considered for admission to a program of studies of approximately 30 semester hours leading toward matriculation at the graduate level. Holders of those three-year diplomas whose syllabi are identical with the three-year bachelor's degree may be considered on the same basis.
- Holders of bachelor's degrees other than those mentioned above and holders of honours degrees may be considered for admission to graduate study with no advanced standing.
- Holders of the Higher Diploma in Education (postgraduate), the Secondary Teachers' Diploma, further university diplomas in education, and the Bachelor of Education may be considered for graduate admission with no advanced standing.
- Holders of graduate diplomas, e.g., Higher Diploma in Librarianship, that require only a three-year bachelor's degree for admission, may be considered for admission to graduate study with no advanced standing.
- Holders of graduate diplomas that require a bachelor's degree of four or more years for admission may be considered for admission to graduate study with possible advanced standing.
- Holders of master's degrees may be considered to have a degree comparable to a U.S. master's degree.
- Holders of a doctorate may be considered to have a degree comparable to a U.S. earned doctorate or may be considered to hold a title conferred in recognition of published scholarly research independently pursued. Such degrees should always be evaluated on an individual basis with particular attention to plan of study, quality of thesis, and time requirement to earn the degree.

- A Formacion Profesional-Primer Grado (lower level)—awarded to students who, having completed the course of Basic General Education, do not pursue their studies to the bachiller. First level of vocational-technical education, this program is two years in length and leads to the degree of Tecnico Auxiliar.
- A₁ Bachillerato Unificado y Polivalente (BUP)—three-year secondary program following the eight-year Basic General Education program. Qualification awarded after completion of the BUP is the bachiller, which gives access to the Formacion profesional de segundo grado and the Curso de Orientacion Universitaria. By enactment of the Education Law of 1970, the BUP replaced various preexisting high school programs, including the Bachillerato Superior and the Bachillerato Technico Superior. By 1977-78 these programs were completely phased out and replaced by the BUP.

- A₂ Curso de Orientacion Universitari (COU)—college orientation year. Admission is based on satisfactory completion of the bachiller or the Formacion Profesional de Segundo Grado. This program was put into effect in 1971 to prepare students for university-level study and constitutes a 12th year of primary-secondary education.
- A₃ Pruebas de Acceso—university entrance examinations, required for admission to most institutions of higher education. There is a special entrance examination for those over 25 who do not have a bachiller.
- A₄ Formacion Profesional-Secundo Grado (intermediate level)—open to graduates of the lower level who have subsequently followed a Curso de Transformacion. This program may be as long as three years in length and leads to the Tecnico Especialista. Also open to holders of the Bachillerato Superior or the BUP. Graduates of the segundo grado may enroll in a COU and take the pruebas de acceso and, if successful, may then attend a tertiary-level institution.
- B Escuela Universitaria programs—three-year professional and technical programs in architecture, business, education, and engineering leading to the degrees of arquitecto, tecnico, diplomado, professor, and ingeniero tecnico, respectively. Programs require the COU for admission and are usually terminal; however, enactment of the Education Law should allow for transfer between the Escuelas Universitarias and the Colegios Universitarios.
- B₁ Colegio Universitario programs—three-year programs offering courses identical to those of the first three years (first cycle) of the standard Spanish university curriculum. No title or degree is conferred at the conclusion of these studies, but students may then go on to the second cycle at a university, which leads after two years to the licenciado, or to the third level of the Formacion Profesional, which, in turn, leads to the degree of Technico Superior Diplomado. Programs require the COU and the pruebas de acceso for admission.
- B₂ Formacion Profesional-Tercer Grado (higher level)—third stage of the vocational-technical educational track, normally one to two years in length. To gain entrance to this stage, students must have completed the segundo grado and, subsequently, a Curso de transformacion. Other students may enter from the Colegio Universitario programs. Graduates receive the degree of Tecnico Superior Diplomado. The tercer grado was added to the Formacion Profesional by the Education Law of 1970 to provide advanced and specialized training.
- C Licenciatura/licenciado—awarded after passing the second stage of higher education, i.e., after five years of tertiary education.
- C₁ Titulo Profesional—professional title awarded to graduates in engineering and architecture. Equivalent to the licenciado except that candidates complete a special project in the last year of study (proyecto de fin de carrera).
- D Doctorado—highest degree of higher education, awarded after completion of the third stage, normally two years in length after the licenciado. Students must complete a series of cursos monograficos (in-depth studies) and submit and defend a thesis.

- A Mathayom Suksa 5, Mathayom 6—titles of the secondary school leaving certificate and examination given after 12 total years of schooling. The Mathayom Suksa 5 is obtained after seven years of primary and five years of secondary education. Educational revisions beginning in 1978 reorganized the system into six years of primary and six years of secondary education, terminating in the Mathayom 6. Applicants to universities (except for Ramkhamhaeng and Sukhothaimathirath) must sit for a national entrance examination, the JHEEE (Joint Higher Education Entrance Examination).

- A₁ Certificate of Education—awarded after two years of study beyond Mathayom Suksa 3 (grade 10). Before 1981, qualification necessary for teaching at the primary and lower secondary levels. Being phased out in favor of the Higher Certificate of Education.
- A₂ Mathayom Suksa 6—vocational secondary examination and certificate, obtained after 13 years of primary and secondary education. Will be eliminated when the new education system is implemented.
- B Higher Certificate of Education—awarded after two years of postsecondary study. Qualification necessary for teaching at the primary and lower secondary levels after 1981.
- B₁ Postsecondary diplomas—awarded either two years after the M.S. 6 (grade 13) as the Vocational Secondary Certificate or three years after the M.S. 5 (grade 12) as the General Secondary Certificate. These degrees fall into two categories: certificates, which emphasize manual training and produce skilled workers and are generally obtained from “schools”; and diplomas, which consist of both theoretical and practical training, are obtained from “institutes,” and which produce graduates who may choose employment or admission to the third year of a five-year Bachelor of Engineering program.
- B₂ Associate’s degree—intermediate degree obtained in some fields of study after the third year of studies leading to a bachelor’s degree.
- C Bachelor’s degree—first university degree, usually four years of postsecondary study, but five in architecture, painting, sculpture, graphic arts, and pharmacy. Awarded as “pass” or “honours” depending on quality of work. The Bachelor’s in Education may be a four-year university degree or may be an equivalent degree consisting of the Higher Certificate of Education plus two years of university study.
- D Doctor of Medicine—awarded upon completion of six years of university study.
- E Postgraduate diplomas—awarded upon completion of one year of full-time study beyond the bachelor’s degree.
- E₁ Diploma of the Asian Institute of Technology—postgraduate diploma awarded after two years of study beyond the bachelor’s degree.
- E₂ Master’s degree—awarded upon one or usually two years of study beyond the bachelor’s degree, and upon the presentation of a thesis.
- F Doctor’s degree (doctorate)—awarded upon completion of two to four years of full-time study, plus a dissertation, beyond the master’s degree.

Grading System

Thai universities grade on the familiar A to F or A to E scale, with corresponding numerical equivalencies. Universities may assign different translations to these grades, for instance an “A” may be translated as “excellent” or “very good,” depending on the institution.

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Applicants who have completed a bachelor’s degree may be considered for graduate admission.
- Applicants who have completed a postgraduate diploma program may be considered for graduate admission with no transfer credit.
- Applicants who have received a master’s degree may be considered to have a degree equivalent to a U.S. master’s degree.
- Applicants who have received the first professional degree in dentistry, medicine, or veterinary medicine may be considered for graduate admission.
- Applicants who have received the Ed.D. (Doctor of Education) may be considered to have a degree comparable to an Ed.D in the United States.

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Applicants who have earned the bachelor's degree may be considered for admission to appropriate graduate programs.

- Applicants holding the lisans diplomasi (bachelor's degree) or the muhendis diplomasi (engineering degree) may be considered for graduate admission. It is recommended that an applicant holding a Turkish lisans or other type of university degree of more than four years' duration be considered for graduate admission, with the possibility of advanced standing graduate-level credit to be determined on an individual basis.
- The yuksek lisans diplomasi and the yuksek muhendi diplomasi are equivalent to U.S. master's degrees. The Turkish doktora degrees in some cases approximate the U.S. master's degree and in others are similar to the U.S. Ph.D. It is recommended that the academic records of the doktora graduate be reviewed carefully to determine how many years of postsecondary work have been completed, how much formal coursework was required, and what research requirements were fulfilled.

Grading System

Bachelor's degree

Most honours degrees and many pass degrees are classified, and the classes are a guide to the quality of a student's performance. The most common pattern is as follows:

First Class Honours

Second Class Honours Upper Division

Second Class Honours Lower Division

Third Class Honours

Pass

It is not possible to indicate the numerical or percentage equivalents of these divisions for each university. Bearing in mind that throughout the British system marking is harsh, it would be reasonable to assume that the following is a fairly accurate correlation:

First Class Honours	72–100	A
Second Class Honours Upper Division	62– 71	A–/B +
Second Class Honours Lower Division	53– 61	B/B–
Third Class Honours	42– 52	C +
Pass	38– 41	C

The considerable variation between one university and another means that the minimum pass mark could be as low as 35 or as high as 40.

Advice for Admissions Officers

- Holders of a three-year university first degree from England and Wales or a four-year university first degree from Scotland may be considered for graduate admission.
- Higher degrees (master's, but also B.Litt., B.Phil.) requiring a first degree for admission may be considered comparable to U.S. master's degrees.
- Doctoral degrees may be considered comparable to U.S. doctorates.

NAFSA's widely used and highly regarded "Grad Handbook" contains up-to-date information on the educational and grading systems of foreign countries. While primarily designed to meet the needs of persons involved in placing foreign students in U.S. institutions at the graduate level, the reference work also provides undergraduate admissions officers with useful information on many secondary and postsecondary programs. Entries containing advice for admissions officers suggest general guidelines for admission and placement. Each country profile also lists additional sources of information, and the volume contains a general bibliography as well.

The 1990 edition of the "Grad Handbook" will, like its predecessors, be invaluable to admissions and placement specialists at American educational institutions.
